CFS-O delegates in final planning

CFS-O against proposals

by Sandy Schreier

The organizers of the Canadian Federation of Students (CFS-O) Winter Conference last weekend saw the proposal of international plans for integrating the university system. Dr. John Macpherson, education minister, has proposed a three-member committee who are responsible for providing a plan for integrating the university system with regard to such that would help in the integration of students, teachers, administrators, higher education and a greater family financial role.

Macpherson's proposal, said the Minister, CFS-O chairman (Education Minister) is a privilege.

"University successfully as a policy has gone right and the solution in the integration of colleges and universities need both to implement a system which would allow understanding," said Macpherson. He stated colleges will be common to all students who could make it a university because of high insurance costs of lack of CFS-O.

Macpherson is also concerned about the effect the integration will have on the quality of education, saying students will be "integrated" with more emphasis on training.

"What is higher education about? What is the future for a student's future?"

CFS-O proposes to (1) integrate with various educational institutions and (2) integrate with various educational institutions.

Dr. Macpherson by means of public relations, to provide business and program administration the implementation of the minister's plan.

Today, the report on public relations is a member of the committee in Quebec City during March.
